The Store of Values

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

OLD JUDGE: "Those stores have certainly done well, Hank. They've put on a lot of weight since I saw them last time. Don't tell me..."

HANK: "Yes, Judge, you guessed it... I'm usin' those distillers' dried grains... like you recommended. How did you know they were so good?"

OLD JUDGE: "It only stands to reason, Hank. All the distillers take out of grain during distilling is the starch. The part rich in vitamins and proteins is recovered... dried

...and returned to the farmers as highly nutritious feed supplements. Doesn't it help you save your original grain in feeding?"

HANK: "Sure does... about 20%. And my cattle, livestock and poultry are doing like they never did before. I'm savin' grain and gettin' fatter, healthier livestock."

OLD JUDGE: "Guess nobody can tell you anymore that distillers waste grain as they Hank?"

HANK: "Not me, Judge... I know the truth now."

Warships Will Fire Guided Missiles

Change in Naval Warfare Is Expected.

WASHINGTON—Heralding a revolutionary new era in sea warfare, the Navy today announced that two new warships were being equipped to fire guided missiles.

An official statement also announced that the first of the atomic-powered warships, the 45,000-ton USS Nautilus, will be the first to fire the new missiles.

The designs are based on the experience, the development of the guided missile, and the results of the atomic bomb tests.

The Navy compared the advent of guided missile warships with the advent of the aircraft carrier, which proved to be a revolution in the striking power of the naval striking force.

Admiral E. L. Cochrane, of the bureau of ships, said that the development of guided missiles was a major step in the development of naval warfare.
